David Simpson was the editorial cartoonist for the Tulsa Tribune from 1971-1992 and the Tulsa World from 1992-2005. His cartoons now appear in Urban Tulsa and other publications.

He is the son of an Air Force chaplain and grew up in Labrador, Japan and the Panama Canal Zone. While in college he was named the nation's best student editorial cartoonist by Pi Delta Epsilon, the national student journalism fraternity, for his work on "The Vista". He graduated with a double degree in English and journalism.

Simpson's work has appeared in book form as "Simpson: A Collection from the Tulsa Tribune." Several of Simpson's cartoons are in the permanent collection of The Smithsonian Institute.
